Over 6,000 members

We support all our members - whether under individual, company or associate membership - in their work and personal development by means of practical knowledge and possibility of transferring know-how and networking. Numerous examples show that the ICV membership is an important element for development from controller to CEO.

Corporate & Associate Members

In addition to the ICV complete range of services, the corporate membership offers companies additional benefits at ICV events as well as free ICV studies and publications. Currently the ICV is proud of 120 corporate memberships. (extract:)

Larger companies and corporations enjoy tailor-made benefits and services with their associate membership. Associate members: Deutsche Bahn AG & voestalpine.

Work Groups in Focus

In the 13 expert works groups teams of experts with practitioners, consultants and scientists combine research results with practical experience. They develop innovative, practical controlling solutions for current community challenges. The ICV publishes the results, among others as guides in our publication series. The expert work groups deal with a wide range of topics.

Dream Factory

The Dream Factory is a team of specialist spearheads and innovators at the ICV who systematically analyze the controlling and company environment. Identifying important trends at an early stage, assessing their relevance and deriving consequences for the controlling department is their responsibility.

Year theme: „Digital business innovation models and the controllers‘ role“

Recently published Dream Car reports of the ICV Dream Factory:

- Business Analytics | The Road to Data-Driven Corporate Performance Management (2016)
- Industrie 4.0 | Controlling in the Age of Intelligent Networks (2015)
- Big Data | Potential for the Controller (2014)
- Having projection on boom and crisis | To design controlling to withstand volatility! (2013)

Internalization

The ICV anchors its controlling philosophy beyond the German-speaking region. It supports companies in their international expansion and development of controlling skills on site.

In 15 countries the ICV offers opportunity to transfer knowledge and exchange experiences at conferences as well as on regional work groups meetings – also transnationally. In 2014 the English-speaking "International Work Group" was launched, in which controllers from many countries work together on real, practical tasks.

Publications & Internet

The ICV provides access to the international Controlling Community through its own print and on-line media, combined with comprehensive information and training opportunities.

The ICV website www.icv-controlling.com is a central, collaborative platform for information, external and internal communication as well as for providing controlling knowledge.

The ICV members receive the "Controller Magazine" every two months and can download publications from the ICV publication series. Non-German speaking members receive quarterly the "ICV Bulletin" (ENG). Every three months the Dream Factory gives information in its "Quarterly". The "Controller's e-News" newsletter appears in German and English. The ICV is present in the social networks. Thanks to the regional work groups our media offer increases also outside the German-speaking countries, in the languages of member countries.

Regional Conferences

Know-how transfer, exchange of experience, networking - compact on 1 day, on site: Every year, the controlling community meets on regional ICV events. On many places, work groups from the region design the programs, and experts from their ranks provide insights into how they face current challenges in practice.

Regional Work Groups

The backbone of the International Association of Controllers (ICV) are approximately 60 regional work groups in 15 countries. Two to three times a year they usually meet in a host company from the work group. Know-how transfer on self-chosen topics is in focus here, as is the exchange of opinions and experiences as well as networking.

On www.icv-controlling.com the work groups maintain their own websites.

Controller Congress 2017:

"Agile controlling in digital reality: Managing upheavals successfully"

- largest controlling conference in Europe
- presenting Controller Award 2017, endowed with 5,000 EUR
- for the first time: live translation of the lectures in the plenary session into English + a theme center in English
- Date 2018: April 23/24 in Munich

Every year with the Controller Congress the ICV unites the controlling community - controlling practitioners, managers, consultants, academics and university lecturers - at the largest controlling apprenticeship in Europe.

ICV Controlling Barcamp 2017:

Premiere of a young "different" event in the controlling community: June 24 in Berlin, "Young Controllers in Times of Digitalization"

- supported by the Berlin #openspace, the ICV invites you in cooperation with CA Akademie AG
- high-profile keynotes, guests make session planning,
- cool location plus catering
- interaction, networking, transfer of know-how with a lot of fun, all participants act "on the same level".
